

SPECIAL WINS RACE WITH DEATH

Charles Stilwell, Formerly of Browns-town, Has Narrow Escape After Serious Accident.

WILD TRIP SAVES HIS LIFE.

Carried on Special Train From Martinsville to Indianapolis at Record Speed.

Running sixty miles an hour, a special train on the Vincennes division of the Vandalia line, consisting of an engine and caboose, came out victorious in a race against death Monday morning, reaching Indianapolis from Martinsville, in time to save the life of Charles Stilwell, 30 years old, brakeman, whose right leg had been crushed off by the wheels of a train in the Martinsville yards. Mr. Stilwell was born and reared at Browns-town. His father has been dead for several years. His mother, Mrs. Kate Stilwell, moved to Seymour for a short time three or four years ago, but now lives in Columbus.

Stilwell, in a weakened condition, was hurried from the Union Station to St. Vincent's Hospital. Surgeons amputated the mangled limb and reduced a fracture in the left leg and it is reported that the victim has a fair chance for recovery.

The ride to Indianapolis in the special train was an exciting event. The time consumed in making the run of thirty miles between Martinsville and Indianapolis being recorded as little less than forty minutes.

The almost fatal accident occurred as Stilwell was crawling between a cut of cars while his train was switching in the Martinsville yards. In some manner he lost his hold and dropped to the tracks. The right leg was crushed below the knee and the left leg broken in two places. Trainmen hurried to Stilwell's assistance and carried him to the station platform, where medical attention was summoned.

Recognizing the necessity of an immediate operation to save the victim's life, the physicians inquired as to whether it would be possible to take a special train to Indianapolis. Just at that time a northbound local freight train pulled into Martinsville. A hurried consultation with the crew of that train was held and the telegrapher in charge of the station communicated with the chief dispatcher's office in Indianapolis, where the pressing need of obtaining attention in a hospital was made known. A few minutes later a return message was received announcing a clear right of track and ordering the train, in charge of Engineer, Hooper and Conductor Horn, to make up a special train with an engine and caboose and bring the injured trainman to Indianapolis.

The Vandalia offices at Indianapolis notified St. Vincent's Hospital and surgeons were summoned to the operating room. Despite the great loss of blood and intense pain suffered by Stilwell, he was conscious during the trip to Indianapolis and greeted his wife affectionately as he was carried into the hospital. Stilwell has been railroaded for the last ten years and for four years has worked with the Vandalia lines. This is his first accident.

DIED.

SALMON:—George Salmon, age 53 years, died Tuesday morning at his home in Columbus, after an illness of cancer of the stomach. He was born at Rockford and spent most of his life there. One sister, Mrs. G. M. Wildman of this city, is the only near relative which survive.

Mr. Wildman went to Columbus this morning to attend the funeral, which will probably occur Wednesday.

WORD RECEIVED

From Sister and Father of Stranger Who Died Here.

Frank Voss, Monday night, received a telegram from the chief of police of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The message stated that Mrs. Anna Jelala, a sister of the stranger, Matt Young, who died at the Schneck hospital Sunday morning, lives there. She gave the address of the young man's father as Isaac Young, Kimbell, West Virginia. She said to notify him and also B. J. Boyd of Kimbell.

Evidently the young man had been absent from home for some time. Just before his death he stated that his father lived at Roanoke, Va. but the message received from the chief of police there Monday, stated that the father had left Roanoke two months ago. Following the receipt of the telegram from Cedar Rapids Monday night, messages were sent to Kimbell. At noon today a telegram was received from the father directing that the body of the young man be shipped.

MARRIED.

BANTA-BURRIS.

Claude Everett Banta and Miss Eschol Marie Burris were quietly married Sunday at 12 o'clock by the Rev. J. A. White, pastor of the First United Brethren church, at his residence on west Walnut street. Mr. Banta is a son of Lafayette Banta, a well known locomotive engineer, and is a brakeman on the B. & O. Southwestern, with headquarters at Seymour. He is a popular and industrious young man. The bride is the daughter of Tobias Burris of George street. After the marriage, the couple returned to the home of the bride where a dinner was served in their honor. They left Sunday afternoon on train 6 for Seymour, where Mr. Banta has a cozy home prepared for his bride. When they arrived at Seymour they were met by a crowd of friends who escorted them to their new home where a reception was held.—Washington Herald.

A CLEW

Which May Possibly Lead to Capture of Post Office Robbers.

A post office inspector was in Crothersville Monday to investigate the post office robbery. The only clew found which affords any promise for the capture of the thieves is the discovery that two men drove hurriedly out of the town shortly after the time when it is thought the robbery was committed. They were in a rubber tired single rig, drove a gray horse and went to the south. Men are at work on the clew.

The two strangers who were arrested at Columbus Monday on the suspicion that they might know something of the robbery, were released. The fact was established that they were not in Crothersville Saturday night.

MISSIONARY RIDGE FIGHT

One of the Greatest Battles Fought During the Civil War.

VERY HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE.

Story of Struggle Told By Seymour Veteran Who Visited Scene Recently.

Missionary Ridge is about two miles southeast of the city of Chattanooga, Tenn. and extends from a northeastern to a southwestern direction. The Ridge is several miles long, but only the north end of it was involved in the terrible battle fought on its top.

The Ridge takes its name from Roman Catholic missionaries who in an early day taught the Indians the knowledge of the Savior of mankind. What a contrast from the spirit of reconciliation and peace taught by the early missionaries in those early days, and the terrible carnage of war which we are now trying to describe.

The height of this ridge is not nearly so great as that of Lookout Mountain as the city cars climb its incline with comparative ease. The car line runs the full length of the Ridge winding its way among monuments, tablets, flowers and wild forests giving a variety of view to the sight seer.

The battle of Missionary Ridge was only one act in the series of battles that marked the aggressive campaign mapped out by General Grant, who now had command of all the armies in the west. The three great battles viz, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge and Chickamauga, were only preliminary to that great campaign of Sherman's memorable march to the sea.

The Confederate army under the command of General Bragg, had shut up General Rosecrans and his army in the city of Chattanooga, and also had control of all the railroads entering into the city, making it difficult for the Union army to subsist. The only way the men and animals were enabled to exist at all was by hauling their food and ammunition and clothing by wagon trains over a circuitous route and over roads that were much of the time almost impassable. For weeks General Rosecrans' army was compelled to live on half rations, one of the many sad incidents of war. When Lookout Mountain fell into the hands of the Union army that gave General Rosecrans an opportunity to co-operate with the forces under General Hooker, thus lifting the siege of Chattanooga. This was the first important step in the plan of campaign mapped out by General Grant as he needed all the forces in his command to carry out his aggressive campaign.

The evacuation of Lookout Mountain also gave General Bragg additional force with which to defend Missionary Ridge, of which he was not slow to avail himself.

Rosecrans occupying Chattanooga on the northwest, Hooker occupying Lookout Mountain on the south and Sherman approaching from the north formed a combination of military strategy that was not at all assuring to General Bragg and his command.

However the Confederate commander had much advantage over the Federal army. He had the choice of the place of battle; he had long been fortifying it until it seemed almost invulnerable; he had an army insured to all the experiences of hard warfare; he had officers on whom he could rely in every emergency; he was also well equipped with guns and ammunition, besides he was well acquainted with the topography of the country.

If the Union army could not take Missionary Ridge by assault, there was one thing certain, and that was, the Confederate army would be flanked on every side, their communications cut off, and in turn, would be besieged, and in time would have to surrender, which would be far more disastrous to the Confederacy than to fight a losing battle and escape with the bulk of the army.

The two armies met face to face at Missionary Ridge, and history has already informed us of the terrible conflict which ensued. The battle raged for two days, and much of the fighting was done with the bayonet and by the men on both sides clubbing their guns. The blue and the gray fell side by side, one army charging and then the other, the heavy and light artillery belched forth their rain of death, plowing up the earth, cutting down the trees, beating down fortresses, but in the face of it, all officers were riding here and there carrying orders, cheering on their men, the ranks pressing on right up to the muzzles of the deadly cannon and the leaden hail before which it would seem that even a sparrow could not possibly escape. Are these men or are they demons incarnate? Is this one of the elements of the civilization of which we boast? Is this the method—the best method of advancing civilized life? These are serious questions and open a field for candid reflection, but at the same time history teaches that every great advance in civilization has been at the cost of human blood.

What does this all mean? Here is the Anglo Saxon race, of the same nation, speaking the same language, occupying the greatest and best continent on the globe, many of them related by the law of consanguinity, having common interests, how came they in deadly array?

Two factors entered into this bloody war. One was a misinterpretation of the Constitution and the other was the curse of human slavery. A misunderstanding, the penalty for national sin.

On the last day of the battle of Missionary Ridge General Grant ordered a charge on the outer works of the enemy and the assault was successfully made, but the boys in blue were so flushed with victory when the first works were taken, they pressed right on up the Ridge facing the more invulnerable fortifications of the enemy and took those also sweeping the enemy from the field and planting the Stars and Stripes on the fortresses of the enemy, and the battle of Missionary Ridge was over.

General Grant made some inquiry as to who gave the command to assault the inner works of the enemy, but no one knew. It was the instantaneous impulse that enters into an army when they feel the spirit of victory and act on the spirit of the moment. Every experienced soldier knows that on the impulse of the first signs of victory of his comrades, and the corresponding depression of their enemies, is the time to strike for a complete victory. To remain in outer breast-works is to endure the fire of the enemy, whereas a spontaneous charge on the part of the whole line leading in the charge means the clinching of the victory and closing the dreadful carnage. When General Grant found that the boys acted on their own accord, and that they had won the day for his army, that ended his investigation. And well it should.

The smoke of battle settles down in the valley, the noise of the retreating forces die away on the passing breeze. But the field of battle! What a sight! The dead are strewn everywhere, the groans of the dying and the wounded may be heard from every quarter. Temporary hospitals are erected where the physicians and nurses can care for the wounded, the tired and hungry soldier washes away the smut of battle, he makes a cup of coffee, eats his frugal meal of crackers and fat meat, rolls himself in his blanket and lies down to sleep, that great panacea for exhausted nature, and "dreams of home, sweet home." Others are not so fortunate for they are detailed to go out on picket, guard the camp, pursue the fleeing enemy.

These two brave armies separate, change the theatre of their respective operations, but we shall see them again face to face in another and a more destructive engagement where the honors are more evenly balanced but where the suffering and losses are infinitely greater. Veteran.

A WARNING FOR THE HOT SEASON

Colored Drinks May Not Be All They Seem.

HEALTH BOARD MAKES A TEST

As a Result There is on Exhibition in Its Laboratory a Deeply Dyed Pink Stocking Which Obtained Its Beautiful Hue by Being Soaked in the Contents of a Bottle of Stuff Sold Over the Counter.

Indianapolis, May 23.—An exhibit for the display that it uses for instructing the people of the state in the proper selection of foodstuffs has been prepared by the food and drug department of the state board of health. The exhibit consists of a dark pink stocking, dyed so as to resist the ordinary methods of laundering. The dye was used from a bottle of summer soft drink, such as may be encountered at almost any of the thousands and one soft drink places that come and go with the hot season. The bottle from which the dyestuff was taken was sent in by an inspector and an examination in the laboratory led one of the chemists to believe that coal tar dye had been used in obtaining the beautiful strawberry color of the liquid. As a test a white wool stocking was obtained and about one-fourth the contents of the bottle was poured into a bowl, and the stocking was permitted to soak in the solution for a few minutes. It came out a beautiful pink, except for the heel and toe, where silk yarn had been used. Repeated washings by the chemist, under conditions similar to those used in the laundry, failed to dislodge the coloring matter. "One might as well drink the ordinary dyes that are sold in the drug stores for dyeing woolen goods as to drink that stuff," observed the chemist.

SHOT HIS WIFE

Tragedy Follows Attempt to Secure Divorce at Greenfield.

Greenfield, Ind., May 23.—John Holliday, aged forty-five, of Wilkinson, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife, aged thirty-five, in the law office of Cook & Cook, of this city.

Mrs. Holliday is a telephone operator at Wilkinson, and she was in consultation with a lawyer preparatory to filing a suit for divorce in the circuit court. She was sitting at the table with Charles Cook, junior member of the law firm, and her brother was sitting in another part of the room when her husband entered and began to beg her to live with him. On her refusal he shot her in the face. She fell to the floor and before he could be hindered he shot her again, this time in the neck and shoulder.

Mr. Cook caught Holliday and took the revolver from him. Others, hearing the shots, went to the assistance of Cook and held Holliday until the arrival of the sheriff, when he was taken to jail.

The Rock Trial Continued.

Bedford, Ind., May 23.—Frank Ross, an important witness in the case of Augustus Pongo and Thomas Meno, charged with the murder of Philip Rock, is missing and the trial has been continued until he is found. Tony Rock, son of the murdered man, has gone in search of him, after saying he would spend all he possessed before giving up efforts to convict the prisoners.

Policeman's Strange Case.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., May 23.—Patrolman Field C. Teaney, aged fifty-six, was found unconscious lying in a pool of blood along the railroad track near Cochran. Physicians found that his skull was fractured and several ribs and his left hip broken. Teaney has not regained consciousness and it is not known how he received the injuries.

Indiana National Guard.

Indianapolis, May 23.—By direction of the governor, George W. McCoy, adjutant general of the Indiana national guard, has issued an order setting July 17-26 as the time for holding the annual guard encampment at Fort Benjamin Harrison. All the guard will take part except the battalion of field artillery.

Negro Lad Resented Slight.

Richmond, Ind., May 23.—Willie Smith, a twelve-year-old colored boy, was barred from a ball game at Economy by white boys. Smith took offense and assaulted Daylord Sanders, aged eleven, with a rock. The Sanders boy suffered a fractured skull and may not recover. The youthful assailant fled and has not been found.

Brakeman Loses a Leg.

Martinsville, Ind., May 23.—Charles Stillwater, a brakeman on a freight train, fell between two cars while the train was switching in the yards in this city. His right leg was cut off by the wheels.

Elks Meet at Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 23.—Thousands of visitors are expected in this city this week to attend the Elks' annual state reunion, which will begin tomorrow and continue three days.

TO GIVE FILIPINOS THEIR INDEPENDENCE

Object Sought By Resolution in Congress.

Washington, May 23.—In two resolutions introduced, one by Mr. McCall of Massachusetts, a Republican, the other by Representative Martin of Colorado, a Democrat, the independence of the Philippines is contemplated. The Martin resolution asks the president "to take measures for delivering the control and possession of the Philippine Islands to the authorities representing the people thereof and to protect their government by a general treaty of neutrality."

The McCall resolution is similar to one presented last week by Representative Peters of Massachusetts, a Democrat. It sets forth that the Filipino "of right ought to be free and independent." In this measure the president is asked to effect the neutralization of the Philippines by international agreement.

He Didn't See the Danger.

Newburgh, N. Y., May 23.—An Italian employed in constructing a sewer picked up a live wire that had been torn down by a blast. He had been warned against touching it, but said there was no danger. After the 3,000 volts had passed through him the corner was notified.

Husband's Shocking Discovery.

Franklin, Ind., May 23.—Will A. Green found his wife dead when he returned home at noon. A bullet had pierced her heart and the weapon was on the floor beside her body. Mrs. Green had been in poor health for several months.

More Postal Savings Banks.

Washington, May 23.—The post-office department has designated fifty additional postal savings banks, making the total number established to date 226.

Statehood Advocates Anxious.

Washington, May 23.—Debate on the statehood bill will be concluded today and a vote taken before adjournment for the day.

Watch Your Kidneys.

Their action controls your health. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor, Allen Campbell, 322 S. Morton St., Bloomington, Ind., says: "My kidneys and bladder caused me a great deal of trouble for some time. My back pained me a great deal. There was a dull bearing down pain in my bladder and I felt all out of sorts. Foley Kidney Pills helped me from the start. The backache and pain in my bladder left and my kidney action became normal and regular. Foley Kidney Pills have certainly done wonders for me and I gladly recommend their use." A. J. Pellens.

Clothing or Ornament.

Man will always wear something, but the savage regards clothes as ornaments and ornaments as clothes. Probably a married Mashona woman would rather die than appear without the ring around her shaven head. On the other hand, not long ago a Mashona chief earnestly besought a missionary to give him a pair of trousers, which the missionary, with some reluctance, did. On the following Sunday, when the service was in full swing, the clutch door opened, and the chief advanced up the aisle slowly and with majestic port, wearing one-half of the trousers. He had shared the pair with his brother.—From "Pastels Under the Southern Cross," in Cornhill Magazine.

What Foley Kidney Pills Will do for You.

Foley Kidney Pills are a true medicine. They are healing, strengthening, antiseptic and tonic. Foley Kidney Pills take hold of your system and help you to rid yourself of your dragging backache, dull headache, nervousness, impaired eyesight, and of all the miserable feelings that result from the impaired action of your kidneys and bladder. Remember it is Foley Kidney Pills that do this for you. A. J. Pellens.

The Sunset Splendor.

The beauty of the sunset clouds is due to the circumstance that the yellow and red rays of light have more penetrative power than the blue. When the sun is below the horizon and streaks or layers of clouds are hanging above it in the atmosphere the red and yellow rays of the sun struggle on through the air as far as these clouds, dropping their blue associates by the way, and thus paint the fleecy surfaces of the clouds with the glory which so often charms and delights us. The rich colorings that often appear toward the eastern side of the sky after sunset are but reflections shot off from the cloud surface in the west.—New York American.

FIXING TO SINK THE BATTLESHIP MAINE

Historic Wreck Will Be Towed to Deep Water and Sunk.

Washington, May 23.—Unless congress directs otherwise, the wreck of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor will, when raised, be towed out to sea and sunk in deep water. Information to this effect has been received by congress from Secretary of War Dickinson. He forwarded a report from the engineers in charge of the work of raising the Maine. The board recommends that when the wreck is raised it shall be stripped of all material of value and the remains "towed out to sea and be sunk in deep water."

In his letter of transmittal, Secretary Dickinson said that he has approved the recommendation of the board and that action will be taken accordingly unless congress shall direct otherwise.

The board's report shows the progress of the work in the harbor up to date. The coffer dam around the wreck is practically completed. It is planned to pump the water out gradually, exposing the wreck first to a point about ten feet below the main deck. This section will be cleared of salvage, bodies and personal effects. The pumping of water will then be renewed until the next deck is revealed. This will be repeated until all the space in the dam is clear of water.

Chesterville, near Hampton, Va., the home of George Wythe, the first American chancellor, probably the oldest residence in the United States, has been destroyed by fire.

The house committee on rules will soon take action on the Francis resolution providing for the creation of a special committee to inquire into the affairs of the American Woolen company.

At a meeting of a missionary society at the home of a farmer living near Peabody, Kan., twenty-six people were poisoned from eating pressed chicken in which ptomaines had developed. Two of them died.

A tablet has been unveiled at Arlington cemetery in memory of Major C. P. L'Enfant, the French engineer officer of the Continental army, to whom General Washington assigned the task of laying out the national capital city.

"The Best in the World"

As the bride led her friends into her cool, spotless kitchen, they broke into a chorus of approval.

"Well, I am proud of it," she said, "and proudest of all of my stove. It's a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove, and I think they are the best in the world. They toast, roast, broil and bake equally well—really to perfection—and the kitchen stays much cooler and cleaner than with any other range. This stove cuts my kitchen work almost in half."

There is no wood or coal to carry for a New Perfection; no ashes to clean up. It is ready for use as soon as lit; out at a touch of the fingers—economical as well as quick and convenient.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Handicraft finished throughout. The 2- and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc. Dealers everywhere; or write for descriptive circular to the nearest agency of the Standard Oil Company (Incorporated).

GOOD FOR EVIL.

Instead of returning evil with evil, try to return evil with good, to say nothing ill of men, to act kindly even with the ox. Live thus one day, two days or more and compare the state of your mind with its state in former days. Make the attempt and you will see how the dark, evil moods have passed away and how the soul's happiness has increased.—Tolstoy.

WAR STORIES.

Today the Republican is publishing the third of the series of war stories which it is running. These will appear every Tuesday evening and will call to the minds of the veterans and older citizens, the stirring days half a century ago when the war was just beginning.

PARK SWITCH

Petition Will Be Circulated Asking
City Council to have Switch Moved.

A petition will be presented to the city council asking them to have the switch track on Broadway street and the northwest corner of the city park taken up and also asking that the city sell a small piece off the northeast corner of the park, just enough to make the turn from the railroad for the track to come down Bill street on the east side of the park to the Seymour Manufacturing Co.'s plant. The petition will be circulated during the next day or two. So far as we have been able to learn the proposed change is regarded as a decided improvement since it relieves the main entrance of the present track along the west side of the park.

INDICTMENT RETURNED

Voluntary Manslaughter Alleged in Robbins Murder Case.

The special session of the grand jury adjourned today after investigating the shooting of Walter Robbins in this city last Thursday night. It is said that the evidence before the grand jury by the various witnesses, agreed as to the main points in the story, differing only in some of the details. After its investigation, the grand jury returned an indictment of voluntary manslaughter against Will Ballard, the sixteen-year-old boy who confessed Saturday to doing the shooting. Under this indictment Ballard can be released on bond and the penalty on conviction is two to twenty-one years.

Woman's Civic League.

The Woman's Civic League met again Monday afternoon. The League now has a membership of 79. All the committees' reports showed that they are busily working along their various lines. The committees on streets, alleys and yards, reported that the "clean-up" day was a decided success, that they felt very much encouraged but expected to do even better on the next occasion. The prize committee reported that the school children had requested over five hundred penny packets of flower seeds which will soon be distributed. A communication in regard to this, will appear soon in this paper.

At the meeting Monday, it was voted that each member of the organization be obligated to bring in at least one new member at the next meeting. Members take notice.

The Woman's Civic League wishes to extend their thanks to Mr. L. A. Ebner, Mr. H. F. White and Mr. J. M. Hamer for their assistance on "clean-up" day, also to the editors, citizens and merchants for their hearty co-operation.

Prizes Awarded.

Before the combination rebate sale was started, Ray R. Keach offered two prizes to the persons who would estimate most closely the number of customers who would be waited on at his store during the three days' sale. The number of patrons during the three days was 1,573.

Miss Mary Will Chambers estimated 1,581 and received the first prize, a porch swing.

Mrs. Neal Short who lives on rural route 1 estimated 1,585 and received the second prize, a $2.00 picture.

John A. Weaver and grand-daughter, Miss Alice Weaver were at New Albany Monday to attend the funeral of another grand-daughter, Mrs. Maud Baggs Hefton. Mrs. Hefton was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Biggs, who are remembered by many Seymour citizens. She was ironing at her home Saturday when she suddenly became ill and died in about thirty minutes. She leaves a husband and infant child about six months old.

A SLICK GRAFTER

Sells Bedford People, Packing House Shoulders for Country Hams.

A slick grafter victimized a number of good Bedford people last week. He came into town and disposed of a lot of packing house shoulders for country hams and was gone again before the fraud was discovered. He took orders from quite a number of people on the strength of his story that he had a lot of choice country hams and was selling them at 15 cents a pound. That sounded mighty good to men who remember the appetizing flavor of the ham they used to get at home down on the farm. Some people ordered several. The hams were delivered, the salesman collected his money and disappeared. It was not until the good housewife or the cook went to prepare some of the meat for supper that the discovery was made that instead of country ham, it was only packing house shoulder that bore the stamp of the government inspector. The price should have convinced any one that there was something wrong, for good country hams can be sold every day in the week at 25 cents a pound, and are hard to get at that price.—Bedford Democrat.

JUNIOR RECEPTION

Given For the High School Seniors in Gymnasium Monday Evening.

The gymnasium at the Shields High School was beautifully decorated Monday evening with the high school colors, purple and gold and with pansies, ferns and an abundance of other flowers, both wild and cultivated. The occasion was the annual reception given by the Junior class of the High School to the class of 1911 who finish their work this week.

In one corner of the room, Miss Alwes, one of the high school teachers, had a booth where fortunes were told, revealing the future possibilities to every inquirer after the truth. The evening was spent in charades and other games that were full of life and enthusiasm. A picture contest was conducted, the pictures to represent some book. The prize in this contest was won by Frank Hopewell who was awarded a High School pennant for his success. During the evening a shower was given to Prof. J. C. Edwards, who is soon to become a benedict.

In the domestic science room an elegant two course luncheon was served by the Juniors. The tables were decorated with pansies and ferns and the favors were hand painted boxes covered with pansies, the senior class flower. There was a large attendance of the Juniors and Seniors and High School teachers and that every one had an enjoyable time goes without saying.

Commencement Tonight.

The commencement exercises of the Jackson and Redding township schools will be held at the Majestic theatre tonight. Dr. L. D. Bonebrake of Indianapolis, will deliver the class address.

Man a Working Machine.

Man of today is as near a machine as he probably ever can become, and still exist. To keep him in perfect "running order" he has to be treated as such. Now, if your watch or auto had slipped a cog, or was "clogged up" with foreign matter threatening its very existence unless removed, would you apply acid or dope to rid it of foreign matter or to adjust its parts?

—As With Auto and Watch—so with the human body, it gets out of running order through the process of life and needs repairing. No defective machine can turn out good work. Every day that an "unclean" watch or auto, or any other machine is compelled to run, wears seriously its vital parts and saps its vitality. The longer you try to work while the body machinery is out of gear, the greater will be the damage it suffers. Health depends upon the human machine being kept in good mechanical order. Adjustment of the human body is the particular and special work of —The Spaulhurst Osteopaths—That they are expert body mechanists, know what to do, and how to correctly fix what is mechanically wrong with the body structure is evidenced by kindly expressions of those who have given their treatment a fair trial. They give a little more satisfaction than is expected and make good every promise. They do not claim to perform miracles. Aid nature to health—that's all. Adjust the human machinery and nature makes the cure.

You are invited to call, consult and learn what ails you without charge. Do it today. *Yes, you! It may not be too late. First National Bank Building, Seymour, Phone 557.

INFLAM- MATION AND PAIN

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I was troubled for a long time with inflammation, pains in my side, sick headaches and nervousness. I had taken so many medicines that I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to health. I have no more pain, my nerves are stronger and I can do my own work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me after everything else had failed, and I recommend it to other suffering women."—Mrs. Wm. Seals, 605 W. Howard St., Creston, Iowa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

The War Fifty Years Ago

Both North and South Show Great Confidence---Everybody Singing War Songs---North Gladdened by Neutrality Proclamation From Queen Victoria---McDowell, Thomas and Lyon Made Brigadiers---Sherman and Sheridan First Appear In the Conflict---Both Sides Eagerly Recruiting and Equipping Men---Small Land and Naval Skirmish Near Fortress Monroe---Kentucky Governor Forbids Either Union or Confederate Troops From Crossing His State.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
[Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.]

DURING the month of May, 1861, the chief activity on both sides was in recruiting, drilling and planning future campaigns. Lincoln's second call for troops had just been made, and the states were busy filling their quota. Jefferson Davis had also issued a call for men, and the activity in the south was as feverish as in the north. One of the strange phenomena of the times was the confidence shown by both sides in the result. Each section professed to believe that the war would be of short duration and that its side would, of course, be the winner. Nor was all this assumed for effect. In the popular mind it seemed to be a firmly settled conviction.

Yet the war fever was on. The people were reading war, thinking war, singing war. Many new songs built around some sentiment of the struggle

It has generally been supposed that the queen actually had much to do with preventing intervention by England. Charles Francis Adams, son of the American minister to Great Britain at that time, denies this, and in a recent address before the New York Genealogical society read from his father's papers extracts to show that it was really Lord Palmerston who was instrumental in preventing Great Britain from taking up the cause of the south. Palmerston disliked Gladstone, and when the "Grand Old Man," who then was not old at all, although he may have been grand, made his famous speech at Newcastle, in which he said among other things that Jefferson Davis had made "a nation," Palmerston rebuked him, and the proposed intervention was dropped. At this particular time Queen Victoria was too much engrossed with family matters to bother about mere affairs of state. Does this end the pleasing had already come into vogue. One of these was directly the result of Lincoln's second call for troops and in May was just becoming popular.

Yes, we'll rally round the flag, boys,
We'll rally once again,
Shouting the battlecry of freedom,
We will rally from the hillside,
We'll rally from the plain,
Shouting the battlecry of freedom.

CHORUS.

The Union forever! Hurrah, boys, hurrah!
Down with the traitor, up with the star,
For we'll rally round the flag, boys,
Rally once again,
Shouting the battlecry of freedom.

"Rally Round the Flag" has a power to stir us yet. Then imagine what it must have meant in the recruiting days of 1861!

There was another song that I fancy was written about this same time. At any rate, it came early in the war:

We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more,
From Mississippi's winding streams
And from New England's shores.
We leave our plows and workshops,
Our wives and children dear,
With hearts too full for utterance,
With but a silent tear.
Oh, we dare not look behind us,
But steadfastly before!
We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more.

CHORUS.

We are coming, Father Abraham,
Our Union to restore.
We are coming, Father Abraham,
Three hundred thousand more.

This suggests Ingersoll's "Vision of the War."

We see them all as they march proudly away under the fluttering flags, keeping time to the grand, wild music of war—marching down the streets of great cities, through the towns and across the prairies—down to the fields of glory to do and to die for the eternal right.

The week ending May 20 witnessed no single event of first class importance. It was all preparation. The appointment of officers later to become celebrated, the creation of a new military department, the reopening of Baltimore to the passage of troops en route to Washington, the government's raid on telegraph offices in search of disloyal messages, the assurance that foreign powers would not recognize the Confederacy and one slight engagement near Fortress Monroe constituted the chief events of the week.

England Proclaims Neutrality.

On May 13 Queen Victoria issued a proclamation of neutrality between the north and south. The news did not reach America until several days later.

Joseph E. Johnston was given command of the southern forces in and about Harpers Ferry.

Troops were being offered from all over the north and were accepted as fast as the war department could handle them. On May 14 three regiments entered the army from Kansas, the youngest state. On May 15 fourteen regiments were accepted from New York, and ten Scotch regiments were offered. On the same day yachts were accepted from James Gordon Bennett and J. P. Ives. May 17 the Irish brigade, more than 1,000 strong, tendered its services.

Fever For Enlistment.

The popular fever for enlistment is illustrated by the New York Quaker merchant, who said to one of his clerks:

"Well, friend James, is thee willing to enlist?"

"I have thought of it," replied the clerk, "but hesitated because I feared to lose my situation."

"If thee will enlist," replied the Quaker, "not only shall thee have thy situation, but thy salary shall go on while thee is absent. But if thee will not serve thy country thee cannot stay in this store."

That the fighting spirit was abroad was indicated by the first fights all over the north. Wherever came a southern sympathizer and talked about it there an altercation followed as the sparks fly upward. It was the same below Mason and Dixon's line. One clergyman who preached in favor of the Union was given twenty-four hours, or maybe it was twelve, to leave the state. He left. There was not a little rough humor about it all. "We'll hang Jeff Davis on a sour apple tree" was a popular sentiment in the free states. I have often wondered why it was a "sour" apple tree he was to be hanged on, since any other kind would have served, but perhaps the "sour" indicated how people felt about it. These were fierce days. The time of fraternizing between the "Yanks" and "Johnnies" in the trenches had not yet come.

The tenseness of feeling is indicated by two events occurring on May 16. They took place as far apart as Massachusetts and Cincinnati. The Bay State legislature appropriated $3,000,000 for the war, and in the Ohio city Dan Rice's circus was menaced by a crowd until the showman pulled down his own flag and hoisted the stars and stripes.

Union troops were rapidly being concentrated at Fortress Monroe. Early in the week General Wool was ordered to take command, but later General Butler refused to serve in a subordinate position, so he was placed in charge, and Wool was transferred.

On May 20 a slight engagement took place opposite the fortress. The Confederates were seen to be fortifying at Sewell's Point and were attacked by the Star, a Potomac gunboat. The Star succeeded in silencing one of the guns, but was herself hit. The Freeborn then took up the attack and succeeded in silencing both guns. The Freeborn also captured two schooners in the Potomac. Two days earlier the New York troops had their first skirmish at Smith's Point, Md. The only other engagement of the week worthy of mention occurred at Potomac, Mo., sixty miles south of St. Louis, where some secession sympathizers were arrested and their cavalry dispersed.

Lyon Takes Command In Missouri.

General Harney had been placed in charge of the Missouri troops and had issued an address approving Lyon's seizure of Camp Jackson, but later had entered into an agreement with General Price for the maintenance of peace between the state and federal troops. Soon after he was replaced by General Lyon.

Considerable excitement at this time was occasioned by wild reports from Harpers Ferry. On May 15 the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which passes through Harpers Ferry, requested the government to take charge of its line. The next day it was reported that the road had been blown up at that point. This was denied afterward, however, and it came out that only one small culvert had been injured.

There was also trouble with the mails, resulting in the gradual withdrawal of mail accommodations from the Confederate territory. On May 14 the service was suspended between St. Louis and the lower Mississippi. Notice was given that other withdrawals would follow.

May 19 considerable amusement was created in Washington by the return of one of Ellsworth's zouaves from Alexandria with a seventeen foot Confederate flag wrapped about his body. It seems that he had invaded Virginia without the knowledge of his officers, also without the knowledge of the enemy, and had annexed the flag when no one was looking.

Following the neutral attitude taken by Kentucky, the governor of that state on May 20 issued a manifesto forbidding either Union or Confederate troops crossing the state. At the same time Major Robert Anderson of Sumter fame was on his way to Kentucky to take charge of recruiting Union troops.

Two incidents of this week throw a revealing light on the character of Abraham Lincoln. Appeals were made to him to interfere in the transfer of real estate in which southerners were concerned in retaliation for the refusal to pay bills to northern creditors from some parts of the south. Lincoln refused, with the remark that, whatever others did, he could not afford to do wrong. On May 19 the president twice risked capture by passing the Confederate pickets on the Virginia side of the Potomac.

LIVED TWELVE YEARS WITH A BROKEN NECK.

Walter Duryea a Marvel of Surgical Science—Part of Spine Cut Out.

After living twelve years with a broken neck Walter Duryea, son of the late Edgar E. Duryea, the starch manufacturer, is dead. His case was one of the marvels of science. An operation was performed on his spinal cord. Parts of the fifth and sixth vertebrae of the neck, which had been wrenched out of place, were cut away, and although the patient was said to be beyond recovery and was given up, he regained almost complete bodily power.

Mr. Duryea was forty-four years old. He broke his neck on Aug. 7, 1899, while swimming at Oyster Bay. He was an athlete and a member of the Seventh regiment of New York. He was swimming with James Durand of Glen Cove, N. Y., and the accident was caused by his slipping from the steps which led to the water at the old Oyster Bay casino. He struck the sandy bottom of the bay with his shoulder, and his neck was twisted. His companion dragged him out, and he was carried to a hotel and later to his home at Glen Cove. From there he was removed to Roosevelt hospital New York.

All sensations of the body were cut off, and he could feel nothing below the neck, yet he was in full possession of his senses. A month later Dr. Abbe of the hospital staff, assisted by Drs. Robert F. Weir and Arthur L. Fisk, surgeons, and Drs. Pierce Bailey and Edward D. Fisher, neurologists, performed the operation. Duryea was too weak to take ether, so he went under the knife knowing that the slightest move or mistake meant death. The operation took nearly an hour. The back portions of the two vertebrae were removed, laying the sheath of the cord bare and relieving the pressure. Then the incisions were closed. The parts of the bone removed were replaced with a kind of gristle which grew perfectly, protecting the cord.

For days after the operation Duryea felt nothing, but finally nervous sensations began to return and increased in force. His breathing improved and his digestion became stronger. Then he began to take solid food, and after a time he was placed in a reclining chair and wheeled about the hospital.

The angle at which he lay was gradually increased until within a few months he was able to sit upright. According to the physicians who examined him later full muscular power was not restored, but the patient was able to move around with ease.

TURN TO TEA AND COCOA.

Americans Drinking Less Coffee Because of High Prices.

That many Americans have been turned to the greater use of tea and cocoa by the prevailing high prices of coffee is indicated by the imports of those three commodities. Imports of tea and cocoa for the fiscal year ending June 30 next bid fair to be the largest in the history of America's import trade.

Coffee, which is showing the highest import prices since 1897, has fallen in the imports. Since last July there have been imported 644,000,000 pounds, a full hundred million less than was used in this country during the corresponding time last year.

At the present rate of importation it is probable that the tea imports will aggregate 115,000,000 pounds, and cocoa will exceed 140,000,000 pounds. The bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor estimates that the average import price of coffee this year is 10 cents a pound against 7 cents last year.

FOR A BUSIER BEE.

Movement to Treble Capacity of the Honey Harvesters.

To produce a bee that will not sting and that will at the same time be twice or three times as industrious as the bee of today is one of the most important tasks undertaken by the new beekeeping bureau of the Massachusetts Agricultural college at Amherst.

Professor Burton N. Gates, state inspector of apiaries, is in charge of the work and is beginning a series of investigations and practical experiments which promise to promote beekeeping not only in the country, but in cities.

That there is room for bees that will produce ten times as much honey and wax as are now harvested is a theory of Professor Gates, and he has begun a campaign of education which is carried on by a correspondence school and which will be strengthened by a special course in beekeeping at the state apiaries in Amherst.

HER MISTRESS' VOICE.

Long Distance Telephone Talk With Polly Cost $30.

Overcome by a desire to hear her parrot's voice, Mrs. W. H. Wall of Atlanta while on a visit to Cincinnati employed the long distance telephone to converse with her pet in Atlanta. When connections had been made between Cincinnati and Atlanta Polly perched near the mouthpiece, while Mrs. Wall held the receiver to her ear.

When her mistress spoke Polly responded. She talked freely, becoming almost garrulous, in fact. Other members of the household could not get the other side of the conversation, but they think from the expression on Polly's countenance it ran much to "Doll baby" and other endearing terms. Incidentally the connection cost $30.

INTERNATIONAL MEET.

Yale and Harvard Teams to Clash With Oxford and Cambridge.

An international varsity meet in which the combined athletic teams of Yale and Harvard will line up against those of Oxford and Cambridge will be held on the Queen's club grounds in July, the American challenge having been definitely accepted by the British universities.

July 6 has been suggested as the date of the meet, but this may be changed for a day a little earlier or later in order that it may not clash with other events of the month.

Ed Rinne and L. W. Jones will go to Indianapolis Wednesday to attend the state meeting of the Maccabees. The former is the delegate from the local lodge and the latter the alternate.
